DARLAND—Principal

Completing his second year as principal, Dr. Darland had an opportunity to accomplish more for Memorial students than had been possible in preceding years when the student population was larger. His duties included supervision of the guidance staff, participation in curriculum planning, and the representation of Memorial in the community. He helped to acquire an automatic grading machine to assist the teachers with their excessive paperwork. He loyally supported the Chargers in every school event from basketball to vocal music concerts.

Parent conferences, student appointments, and schedule changes were just a few of the things that occupied our counselors every day. They also scheduled college representatives, guided us in career choices and smoothed teacher-student relations. Mrs. Creagor and Mr. Booze joined the guidance staff this year, helping to continue the important role of counseling in school life at Memorial.

Mr. Schuler and Mr. Beller, assistant principals this year, worked with Dr. Darland, the School Board, and us; they strived to improve the curriculum and to manage student affairs at Memorial. Ms. Crafts, our new Dean of Girls, and Mr. Roberts, Dean of Boys, handled disciplinary action, unexcused absences, tardies, and took time out of their busy schedules to help us with personal problems.

The Business Education Department taught a variety of skills to prepare us for office positions. Business Law and Business Math helped us understand the basics of the business world. We learned typing, shorthand, and various office procedures.

In Homemaking, our domestic skills were improved, and in Clothing I, II, and III, we tailored patterns ranging from super simple to Vogue Couture designs.

The busy task of keeping both student and teacher records was delegated to the office staff. In the main office, activities included printing the daily bulletins, handling requisitions, duplicating student schedules, updating transcripts, and dealing with teacher payroll. The attendance clerk, Mrs. Peters, recorded student absences. In the Deans' office, Mrs. Lincoln scheduled student and parent conferences. Mrs. Williams provided clerical assistance in the library, and Mrs. Heflin dealt with our school supply needs in Memorial's bookstore.

The English Department successfully continued its tradition of helping us better understand, through grammar and literature, our own language and ourselves. Again this year, sophomores were given the opportunity to place themselves in one of three levels according to their individual achievement on a placement test. All grade levels were required to take one semester of grammar but could choose from a wide variety of literature courses to complete the second semester of the year. Elective English courses ranged from Man and Media, for those interested in contemporary communication, to Shakespeare, for those more interested in classical studies. Various media were used including films, records, and video tape to further our understanding of the subject matter. Many guest speakers were available throughout the year to make the theories and themes used in the novels we read more clear to us. Creative writing provided us with verbal creative outlets.

The Science Department continued its tradition of furthering our knowledge by offering a wide variety of different courses. Chemistry, Biology, Physiology, and Physical Science were offered as usual this year. Special Physiology was a new course at Memorial offered only to Seniors. Its aim was to enable the students to make wise decisions concerning their own health situation. The more dedicated science students were challenged with Advanced Biology, Advanced Chemistry and Physics.

With the goal of providing maximum quality education for the maximum number of students, the Math Department offered courses ranging from Basic Math to Calculus. Independent study in Calculus was offered and provided the advanced student with more freedom of curriculum and a chance to work at his own pace. Geometry, a course familar to all Sophomores, was again taught by the team method. In addition, Memoiral had its own computer for lab work, saving the computer math students many trips to the Vocational Technical center.

This year the Foreign Language Department used a new multi-media approach to instruct us. From transparencies, films and tapes, as well as new textbooks, we gained a deeper knowledge of other nationalities and their languages. Spanish classes participated in Las Posada by serenading our classrooms with door-to-door Christmas carols. French classes participated in a French Fair held at Southroads Mall, contributing music and scenes from famous French plays. Hall decorations supporting various athletic events could usually be found outside the Latin room. Outside activities, combined with classroom work, helped us reach a better understanding of others in relation to ourselves.

The Memorial Social Studies Department offered a large selection of courses designed to help us understand both the past and the present. Courses offered included Government, Sociology, and Economics as well as Histories. Two new courses, Anthropology and Contemporary Affairs, were added to the curriculum this year. Outside speakers for the department included James R. Jones; John Penderson, an educator from Australia; and various other politicians and businessmen. A variety of films and educational television programs encouraged the interest of students.

The Memorial Art Department this year stressed the exhibition of student work in various art shows. Our students took awards at the Young Talent in Oklahoma exhibit, in poster contests, and locally were represented at Triangle Gallery, the Education Service Center, and at the state-wide exhibit for Oklahoma Art Teachers. The culmination of a productive year was the Memorial High School Spring Art Show, held each year in May. Work from 475 students in twenty art classes was collected for this show. This year's art curriculum was expanded with the addition of a new course in Jewelry Design, allowing students to practice the ancient art of silversmithing. Along with a new course, expanding enrollment for 1974-75 allowed the addition of a new member, Mrs. Fleming.

The Physical Education Department sought to promote strength, health, and endurance as well as competition and cooperation. New gymnastic and lifesaving equipment was helpful in providing more adequate instruction in these areas.

Many activities were provided for girls interested in physical fitness. Team oriented sports were offered for all grade levels; more individualized sports were reserved for Juniors and Seniors. Outside activities included Gymnastics Club, Modern Dance Club, and Girls Recreation Association. The Surfs, Memorial's synchronized swimming team, produced a successful show in the early spring. The All-City Sports Day provided opportunities for city-wide competition, and a new tradition was started with an all-school gymnastics assembly which was held in the spring.

Boys' Physical Education was divided into three areas: regular classes, intramurals, and athletics. Added to the curriculum was handball, a team sport new to Memorial. In the future, the Boys' Physical Education Department hopes to incorporate aerobics into the program of physical fitness testing.

Stuco Strives for Student Involvement

Beginning with Howdy Hat sales, Student Council, under the direction of Mr. Bill Gibbins, began its campaign for student involvement. With Revolution '74 providing the music, we got acquainted at the annual Howdy Dance. Then Stuco launched a series of activities including doughnut sales, homecoming, student directories, and balloon sales at all home football games. Not limiting themselves to school projects, Student Council members backed the KELI paper drive and supported the toys-for-tots campaign. With the student body taking an active interest in all activities, Student Council chalked up a successful first semester.

As the second half of the year rolled around, the members of Student Council kept busy. The constitution was revised, Stuco boys trampled the faculty in basketball, and the girls clashed with the KAKC disc jockeys. With April came a bustling spirit week complete with a 50's day.

The '74-'75 Student Council was successful in reaching its goal. The year had been filled with activities, each requiring our support. Election of new officers brought the year to an end.

Pep Club Promotes Spirit, Pride, and Loyalty

ale cheerleaders urge fellow Chargers to victory.

While Charger teams battled their opponents, the '74-'75 Pep Club put forth great effort to boost spirit among us. A never-ending supply of decorations and activities expressed Pep Club's loyalty. These activities included decorating the halls, lockers, and buses, and making cakes and Christmas stockings for the athletes. With the Pep Club backing them, Chargers never lacked the support they needed.

Preparations for the annual Powderpuff Game were as much fun as the actual clash of senior and junior girls. The preparations were climaxed for the Seniors with a surprise breakfast given by their coaches. Bad weather the following weekend warded off no one from the game as the unyielding Seniors held off the spirited Juniors at Skelly Stadium.

As the year went on, the Pep Club continued to show its devotion with occasional pep rallies and with favors for all events. Eventually, all the athletes' houses had been decked with signs and banners, wishing them luck.

The Memorial Pep Club was successful in raising our spirit above that of previous years. As the year drew to a close, new officers were elected to continue the tradition of pride in Memorial.

The Memorial athletes never lacked the support of one loyal group of followers, the cheerleaders. Two Sophomores, three Juniors, and four Seniors devoted much of their year to encouraging Memorial's teams to victory.

Beginning in the summer, the cheerleaders started their long hours of practice for summer clinic and the upcoming sports seasons. At clinic, they received superior ribbons and spirit sticks, and they ranked in the top ten squads there. They also earned a trophy at state competition.

The cheerleaders worked not only in front of the crowds leading cheers and chants, but behind the scenes decorating locker rooms and buses. Their spirit never ran low throughout all events, come rain or shine, victory or defeat.

Forty senior girls were chosen to serve Memorial and their community through Gamma Sigma. The duties of these girls ranged from selling popcorn after school to working at the O.E.A. convention. As was traditional, they sold mums and boutonnieres for the Coronation Dance. They also helped at plays, athletic events, and assemblies given by Memorial. Gamma Sigma adopted as a special project the children at the cerebral palsy nursery, remembering them with Christmas stockings, valentines, and Easter eggs. As the year drew to a close, a tea was given to select the members for the following year.

Under the direction of Richard Chapman, Interact's aim was to serve Memorial. Interact ushered at the P.T.A. Back-to-School night, worked at the O.E.A. convention, and sponsored the Tricycle Races during Spirit Week. They also escorted the queen and her attendants at homecoming.

Junior Civitan's goal was to aid others in the community. Under the guidance of Mr. Jim Howard, Junior Civitan devoted its time to aiding Tulsa Little Lighthouse. A bowling tournament raised the desired funds for charity.

As a small, boys' organization, Key Club proved to be outstanding in serving others. The boys of Key Club spent many hours throughout the year working at a nursing center. Their list of other activities included ushering at school functions, holding a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and gathering clothing for hurricane victims. They also took part in the Easter Seals campaign and the Multiple Sclerosis drive. As its contribution to the school, Key Club sponsored Film Night during Spirit Week.

Our Red Cross was involved in various drives and activities for the Tulsa Red Cross. In addition to sponsoring the annual blood drive and used clothing drive, members of Red Cross made Christmas stockings and held a Valentine party for underprivileged children. They also filled a chest with supplies for disaster victims. To finish the year, Red Cross put together a scrapbook to be sent to a foreign country.

'74-'75 Staff Innovates Taps XIII

After becoming acquainted with each other and the techniques of producing a yearbook, the yearbook staff set out to make Taps XIII one of the best yearbooks ever. With an all new staff and sponsor, they found that putting Taps together was difficult and often frustrating. They searched for originality in the yearbook that could provide both students and faculty with memorable impressions of their year.

As the year went on, the staff found that by working together they had become very close. Gifts were exchanged at a staff Christmas party, and somehow they found time to celebrate everyone's birthday.
As the final deadline drew near, staffers found themselves constantly working overtime to complete their individual sections of the book. When the last picture was cropped and the final line of copy was written, the '74-'75 staff felt satisfied that they had combined the right amount of innovation with tradition in Taps XIII.

Déjà Vu was the name chosen by the Anthology staff which was composed of thirty seniors under the supervision of Mrs. Norma Bates. To encourage creative entries as well as sales, the staff performed various skits in homerooms and presented an assembly for the entire school. The staff's campaign for creative entries was rewarded with over three hundred pieces of submitted writing. The original art work for the anthology came from Memorial's art students and Déjà Vu staff members. The school anthology was just one of several ways for us to express creativity and to display talents.

A group of seniors, under the guidance of Miss Miller, published Memorial's newspaper, the Sentinel. The bi-monthly newspaper reported and commented on not only school events, but local and national events. Researching and reporting stories, writing and editing copy, preparing layouts, and traveling to Sand Springs were the preliminary duties associated with publishing the Sentinel. Various state-wide competitions led to several awards for the outstanding newspaper staff.

As a small group of German students, German Club's goal was to learn more about the language and customs of Germany. With the sponsor, Mr. Brown, they traveled to Fort Smith, Arkansas to sample an authentic German meal. Other activities included Christmas caroling.

The purpose of Heritage Club was to encourage interest in history. Sponsored by Miss Blackwood and Mrs. Lentz, the club made trips to Harwelden and the World Museum. Although small in number, the club did much to further knowledge of past and present cultures.

As a second-year club, the Distributive Education Program became an outstanding organization at Memorial. D.E.C.A. members not only gained working experience, but sponsored many activities throughout the year. Their main money-raising project was the rock T-shirt sale. Candy bar sales also added to the club treasury. With April came the annual Bosses' Breakfast at the Camelot Inn.

The Future Business Leaders of America Club was designed to promote more understanding and interest in various business occupations. Some of the major activities were field trips, speakers, the Teacher Turkey Race, an outing for Turley orphan children, and Christmas candle sales. Profits from fund raising events were used to send members to the F.B.L.A. State Convention and the Bosses' Breakfast. The F.B.L.A. Convention provided an opportunity to meet chapter members from other parts of the state, enter into competitive events, and learn more about business and business activities.

Masque and Gavel, our speech and drama club, was active throughout the year in recognizing and encouraging outstanding achievement in all areas of speech. As was traditional, Masque and Gavel successfully presented "A Night of One Acts." After a year of speech contesting around the state, receiving the Miami Sweepstakes award was an extra bonus for the deserving Masque and Gavel members. The end of the year brought the club's final activity, the annual Masque and Gavel banquet honoring outstanding achievements in speech.

Our many choruses, directed by Mr. Dan Call, offered Memorial students a chance to develop their vocal music talents. The Girls', Advanced Girls', Mixed, and Concert Choruses formed Memorial's outstanding vocal music department. For Concert Chorus, the year was highlighted with an invitation to sing at the Retired Teachers' Dinner. The four choruses performed for the student body in seasonal concerts. In addition to their many outside performances, Memorial's vocal groups rated superior and excellent in District and State competitions.

A group of Memorial girls worked out each Tuesday after school to develop skills in gymnastics. As the year went on, these skills were perfected and put into routines for the annual Gymnaestrada. The long hours of practice under Sondra Wattenbarger paid off as Memorial ranked high in several events.

As a new feature, Gymnastics Club presented an assembly for the student body. The success of the assembly promised it to become an annual event.

The purpose of Girls' Recreation Association was to give girls who were interested in sports an opportunity to meet outside of class hours. Each week, a meeting was held to practice volleyball, badminton, tennis, or track and field. This practice led to competition in city-wide sports days. Under the guidance of Miss Wattenbarger and Mrs. Cairns, Memorial's G.R.A. was outstanding in both competition and sportsmanship.

In order to raise money for the Memorial Art Show, Art Club also sponsored many films. With May came the show and the donation of various prizes to Memorial's outstanding artists.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Deanna Hanshy, the responsibility of the Audio Visual department was to deliver and run all equipment. A.V. members not only ran the projectors and operated the video tape equipment, but also did the production work for the teachers. Audio Visual's hard work was important to Memorial.

The duties of the stagecraft crew were many. They were responsible for the planning and building of all stage props. Under Mr. Poss's direction, they built scenery for all of our assemblies and theatrical shows. Their artistry and craftsmanship made a significant contribution toward the success of Memorial's stage productions.

Trophies were awarded for first, second and third place winners. The club reached a special interest group in the student body and recognized their accomplishments and skill in the game of chess.

The Computer Math Club, under Mr. Vassaur's supervision, offered its members an opportunity to explore the basics of computer programming, With the use of an IBM computer, members of the club wrote programs to process data for the Memorial swim team, pair students in the computer match-up, display class totals for sophomore and junior enrollment, and process financial requisitions. Members also explored the fundamentals of writing and producing computer music.

The Math Club gave students interested in math a chance to meet outside of class hours. Under Mr. Reynolds direction, the club had candy and book sales to finance scholarships for deserving students. Members also sponsored a speaker on "actuarial sciences". At the end of the year, Math Club awarded five juniors and one senior with scholarships.

Following the pre-season All City games, the 1974 Charger Football Team began its 12th season.

Losing the first two games to Washington and Edison, we came back by winning two consecutive games against Sapulpa and Edmond. The next week we suffered a disappointing loss to Hale. We regained our power in the following two weeks, defeating state-ranked Ponca City, and then beating East Central. Still in the position to go to the State playoffs, the Charger Football Team suffered painful defeats against Enid and Rogers. These losses, along with surprising conference upsets, knocked us out of State competition.

The outlook of the '74 season had been promising, but, after many misfortunes, we fell short of these predictions. The Charger team, led by Senior captains Mark Griffin, Mike Gaither, Ron Ross and Tim Collins, may not have always achieved their goals in this year's season, but they always sustained their enthusiasm and Charger Pride.

Members of our Jr. Varsity team, in their first year of football at Memorial, began with a strong start. Defeating Washington 14-13 in the season's first game, they followed with a powerful 41-8 victory over Edison. The Jr. Varsity team kept this strength throughout the season, ending with a 7-2 record. Coached by Richard Chapman and Jim Sanders, the members of the Jr. Varsity team associated themselves with Memorial football and received the experience needed for varsity competition. Although they played for small crowds, our Jr. Varsity football team had an outstanding '74 season.

Led by Coach Tom MacKenna, the Cross Country team always worked to improve their timing. Although they received little recognition for their two-mile runs, they always represented us highly. With only one returning starter, the '74-75 basketball season looked tough and disheartening for the Chargers. Our team practiced long hard hours to prepare for its season. Losing our first game to Edison by a one point margin, we came back to display our strong desire and enthusiasm by winning the next nine games, defeating tough opponents such as McLain, B'ville College, and East Central. Coached by Terry West, we took first in the All-City and Regional Tournaments and second in the Area Tournament. We advanced to State competition but fell to Oklahoma City Northwest Classen in the first round. Despite the tough opponents we faced, the roundballers experienced a great season, finishing with a 20-8 record.

Building confidence, improving skills, and gaining experience were all goals achieved by the Junior Varsity Basketball Team. Victories over tough opponents such as undefeated Hale and McLain proved the strength of our team. Often finding themselves scrimmaging or playing defense against the Varsity, they experienced a taste of tougher competition. Junior Varsity played for few spectators, but they worked hard at developing good skills and preparing for a chance on next year's Varsity Team. Led by Coach Grover Quinn, the Junior Varsity finished with a victorious season.

Under the guidance of Waldo Eichling the Sophomores began their first year of basketball at Memorial. Learning new strategy and plays, they received experience needed for future competition. Their power and will to win was displayed during the season in which they lost only three games. With spirit and determination, our Sophomore team obtained a good record.

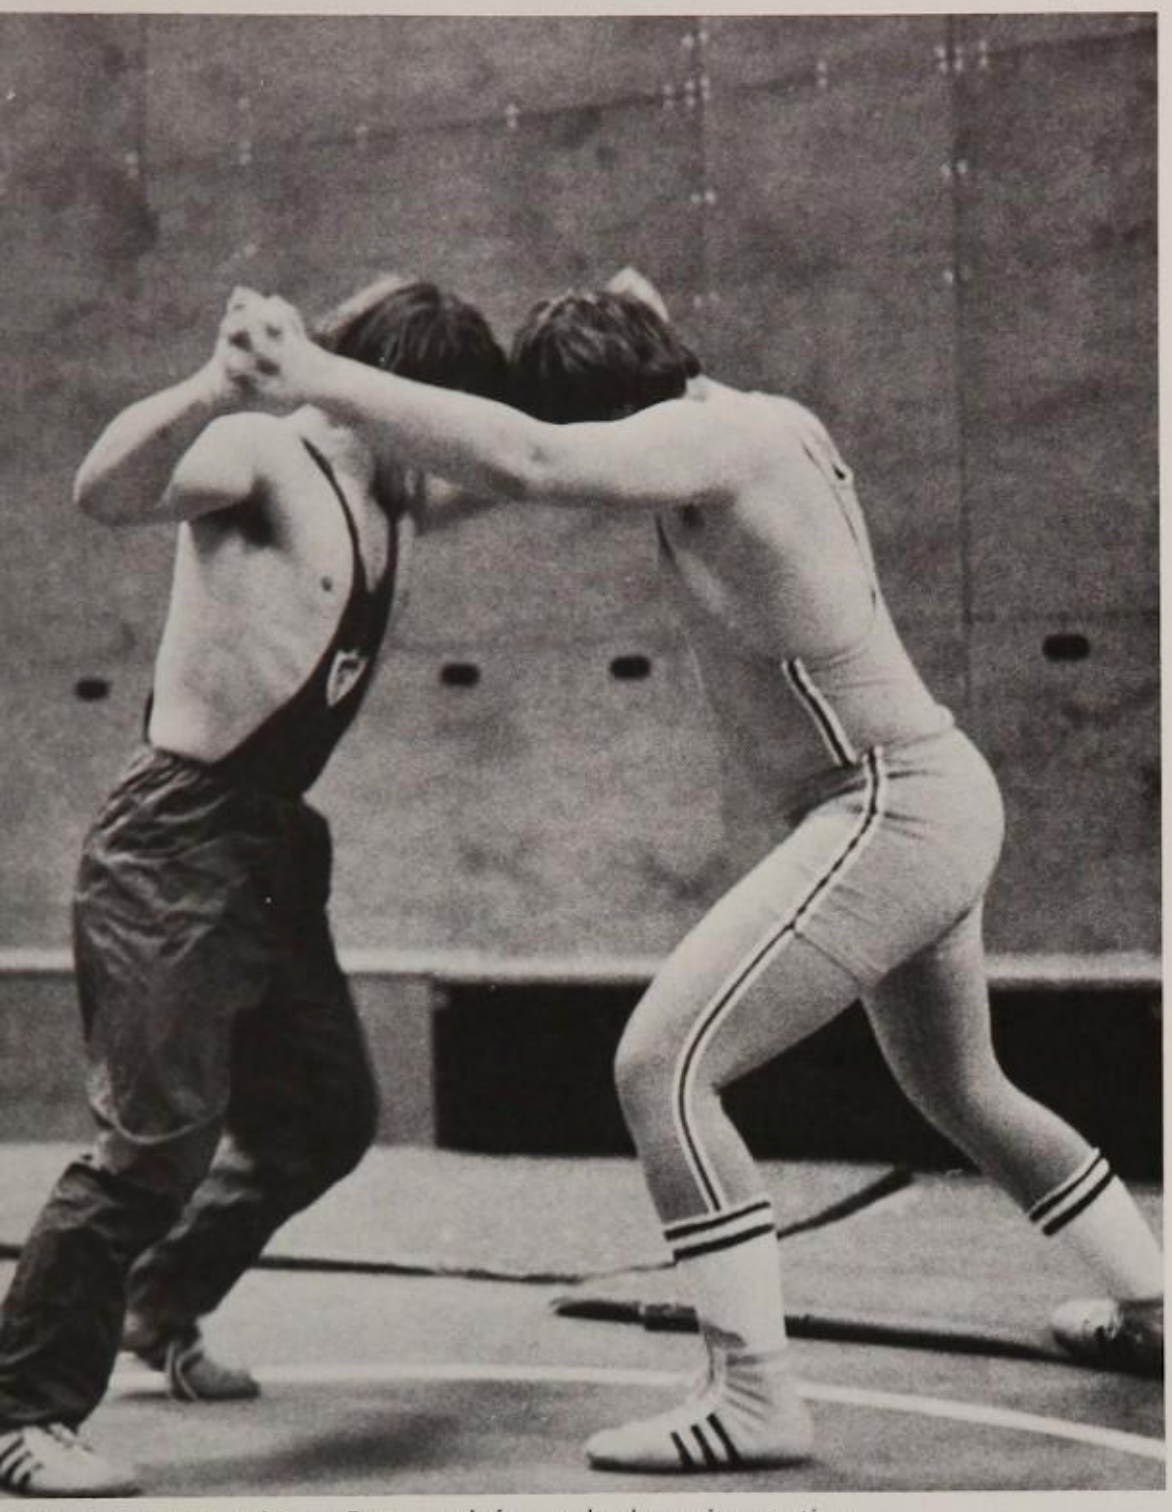
Team Wrestlers Take All-City Tourney



The Junior Varsity wrestlers put in many hard hours of work preparing for their season. This work proved rewarding when we finished with a 7-1 dual match record and first in the All-City B Team Tournament. Coached by Jack Blackburn, the Junior Varsity learned more about wrestling and received experience necessary for future competition. The pain of pulling weight and sweating off pounds for three months paid the price of a successful season.

Hard practice and work prepared the grapplers for their season. Facing many tough teams our wrestlers showed their strength by losing only two dual matches the entire '74-75 season. Loyalty night the wrestlers displayed a great fight against state-ranked Sand Springs, coming from behind and ending the match in a tie. Strong support from new Sophomores helped the Charger team. At the end of the season, we sent five wrestlers to State competition, Kevin Carnino, Bill Apker, Jeff Arnold, Steve Thompson, and Rick Humphrey, crowning Sophomore, Bill Apker, 108 pound State-Champ. The wrestlers ended the season with a 9-2-1 record.

Swimmers Capture Triple Title

Beginning sixth hour workouts in October and adding 5:30 morning practices in December, the Memorial Swim Team practiced everyday to decrease its timing. Facing tough competition, our swimmers proved successful. In the Charger Relays we placed first, defeating state champion Norman as well as our toughest Tulsa opponent, Washington. Nearing the end of the season, our swim team captured first in both the All-City and the Conference meets. Finishing the season, the swimmers displayed their power by advancing 16 swimmers to state and taking 6th place. Team unity as well as individual strengths helped our team. Divers Mick Coleman, Jeri Ledbetter, and Kim Koontz were a great asset to the success of the team. Mick Coleman finished 8th in state competition. Led by Jim Sanders our swimmers had a great season.

Chargers Exceed Pre-Season Predictions

The outlook for the '75 baseball season was discouraging. Pre-season polls showed the Chargers as a rebuilding team, unranked completely. Going into the season with only one returning starter made our chances look hopeless, but under the guidance of Coach Tom MacKenna the team worked hard to prove these predictions wrong. After key victories over Rogers and Edison it wasn't long before we were ranked 7th in State. With almost a full field of new prospects, the team finished with a 17-9 record.

Miss Memorial XII

Carol Tighe

"What are my feelings of being chosen Miss Memorial XII?

. . . I remember watching the coronation of Miss Memorial both my junior and sophomore years. I couldn't even imagine what it would be like to hold the honor of being the queen of a school such as Memorial. For me to be chosen to represent the Class of '75, along with the three other very deserving girls, was truly an honor. I look back on all the excitement and anticipation everyone shared, and all the hard work and time that was spent in preparing for the assemblies, half-time activities, and the dance. Then, when the excitement was at its peak and the big moment had finally arrived, I heard my name announced to fill the reign of Miss Memorial XII. It all seemed too good to be true. And as my day came to an end, and I rode around the track at Homecoming for the last time, I had an inexpressible feeling of pride and gratitude for everyone in making it such an exciting and special time for me. Now, as it all is turning into memories, I know I will always treasure them. I just want to say thanks to all of you—I hope that in choosing me as Miss Memorial XII, I have been the person you looked for."

Honor, Excellence, Scholarship, Leadership—the attainment of these goals has always motivated certain people. These people have given much time and effort toward achieving one, if not more, of these goals. In the process of achieving, they have distinguished themselves. They, as students, have brought recognition not only to their own names, but to their classes and their school as well. The classmates of these achievers have looked to them with respect and admiration as epitomes of Honor, Excellence, Scholarship, and Leadership. These have been the ELITE.

CLASSES

A promising year for 578 seniors, under the direction of Mr. Jim Brown, began with a fund-raising bumper sticker sale on Howdy Day. October was an exciting, busy month for many seniors. This month included many preparations for upcoming senior activities. Some of these preparations were choosing the Commencement and Vesper speakers (Senator Dewey Bartlett and Rev. Dave McKechnie), ordering the announcements and caps and gowns, and applying to various colleges for admission. November brought the annual senior-sponsored Coronation dance in honor of Miss Memorial as well as the final class play, Up the Down Staircase. Both were highly successful in promoting enthusiasm and participation. Many senior homerooms worked hard to get their booths ready for Sadie Hawkins Dance in April. This dance played an important role in building the senior treasury. The graduation activities preparations were completed after the Sadie Hawkins Dance and the slow, restless, tiring, wait for that unforgettable week that would come at the end of May began. The Prom, the Senior Breakfast, Commencement and Vespers were all a part of that long awaited week. It was a week to climax a year that will long be remembered by the Class of 1975.

Class of '76 Prepares for Final Year at Memorial

The class of '76 started their junior year in full force. They sponsored the second dance of the year "The Junior Fair," which was held after the traditional Memorial-Edison clash. In November, they conducted what was probably their most financially successful project, the T-shirt sales. February brought the annual junior sponsored Valentines Dance which raised one-hundred dollars for the class. In March, the long-awaited class rings arrived, and the juniors realized that their school years were coming to an end. The Sophomore-Junior play, "The Mouse that Roared," was presented in April. In May, the election of senior class officers and the selection of class favorites brought the year to a close. It had been a successful year and much of this success was due to the sponsorship of Mrs. E. Baker. She worked hard and kept the juniors' spirit alive all year.

Mr. Pretty Legs, M. Carnino with A. O'Steen.

Beginning the year as strangers and ending it as friends, the Sophomore Class melted into the crowds of Memorial. Opening week was a furor of class schedules, unfamiliar corridors, and meeting new people. Everything they encountered added to the memories of their sophomore year.

With the election of homeroom representatives and class officers, the sophomores became a part of the student body. Activities varied from the Sophomore Mixer after the Enid game to selling pickles after school during Spirit Week. In collaboration with the junior class, the sophomores worked hard to produce "The Mouse That Roared." This was presented to us in an evening performance and a special matinee during school.

Focusing on the future, the sophomores contemplated the academic load of their junior classes and prepared to arrange their schedules for the first time. As the year drew to a close and they reflected on the past nine months, they were proud to have been sophomores but glad to move up in rank. In spite of everything, they all agree that '77 . . . has class!

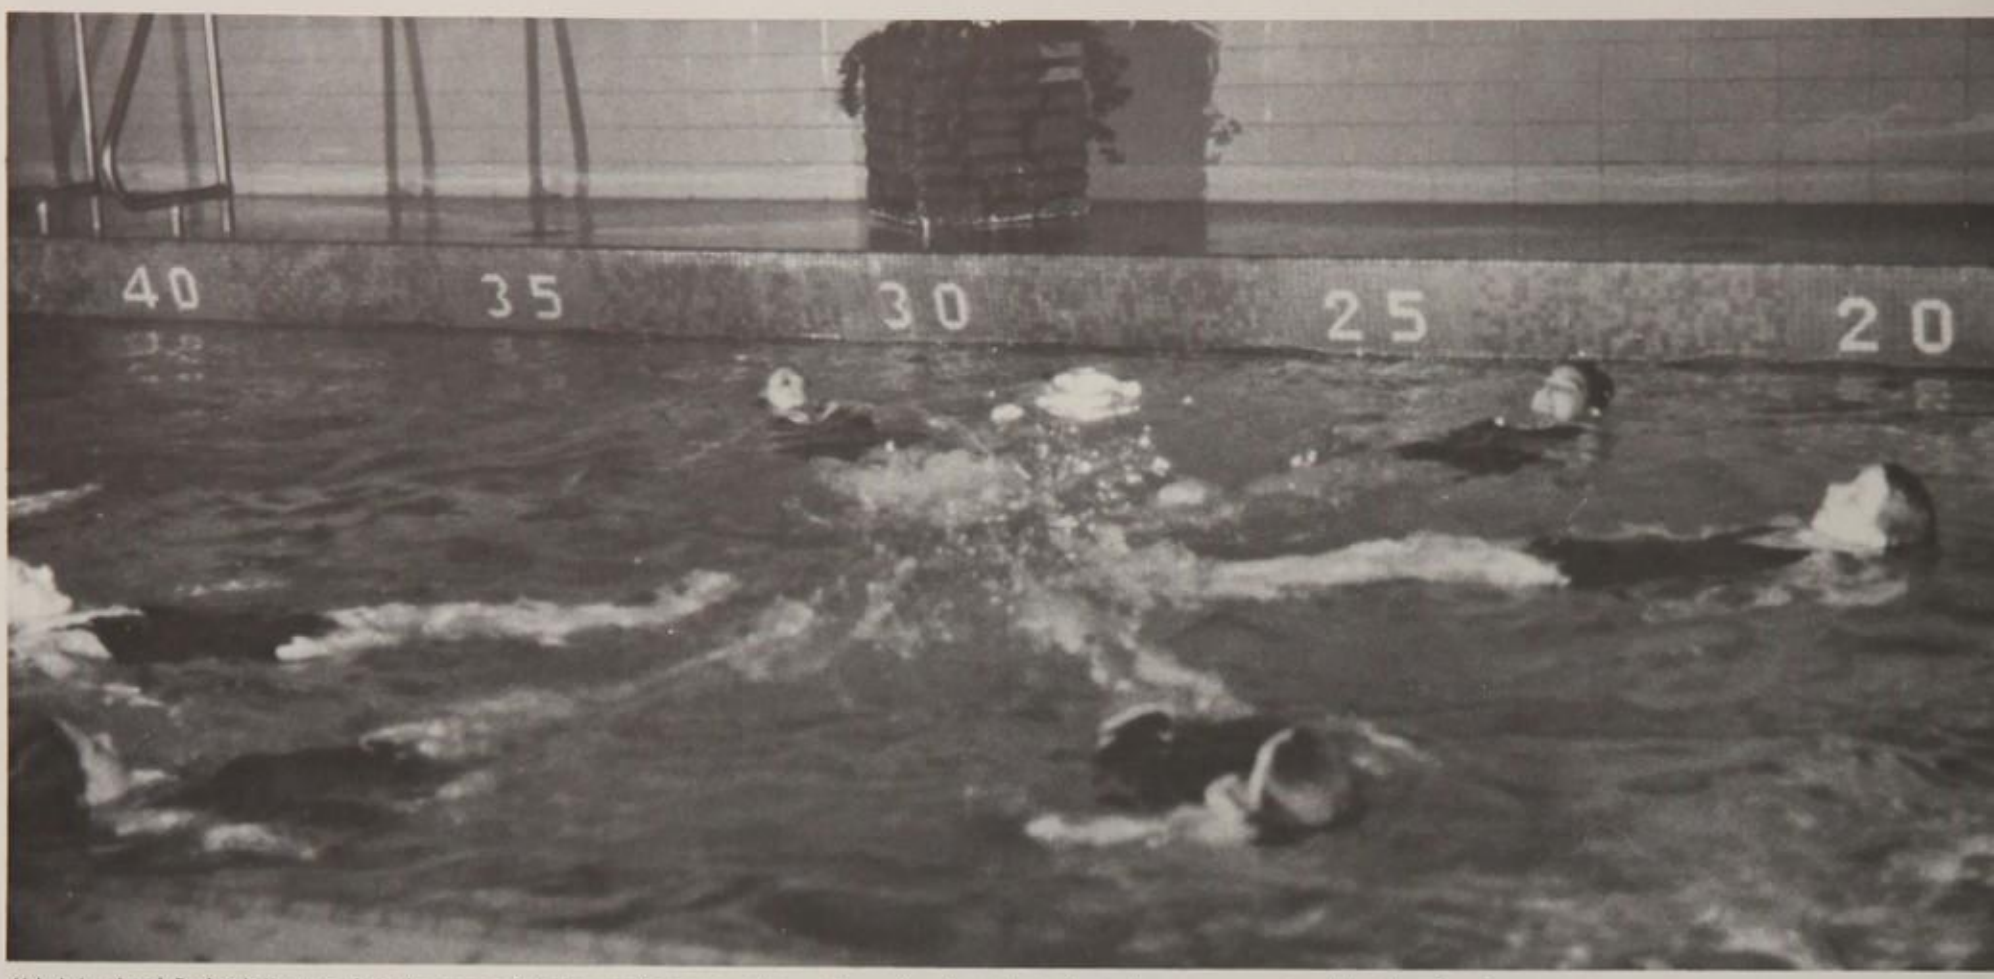
Annual Spring Shows Draw Interest



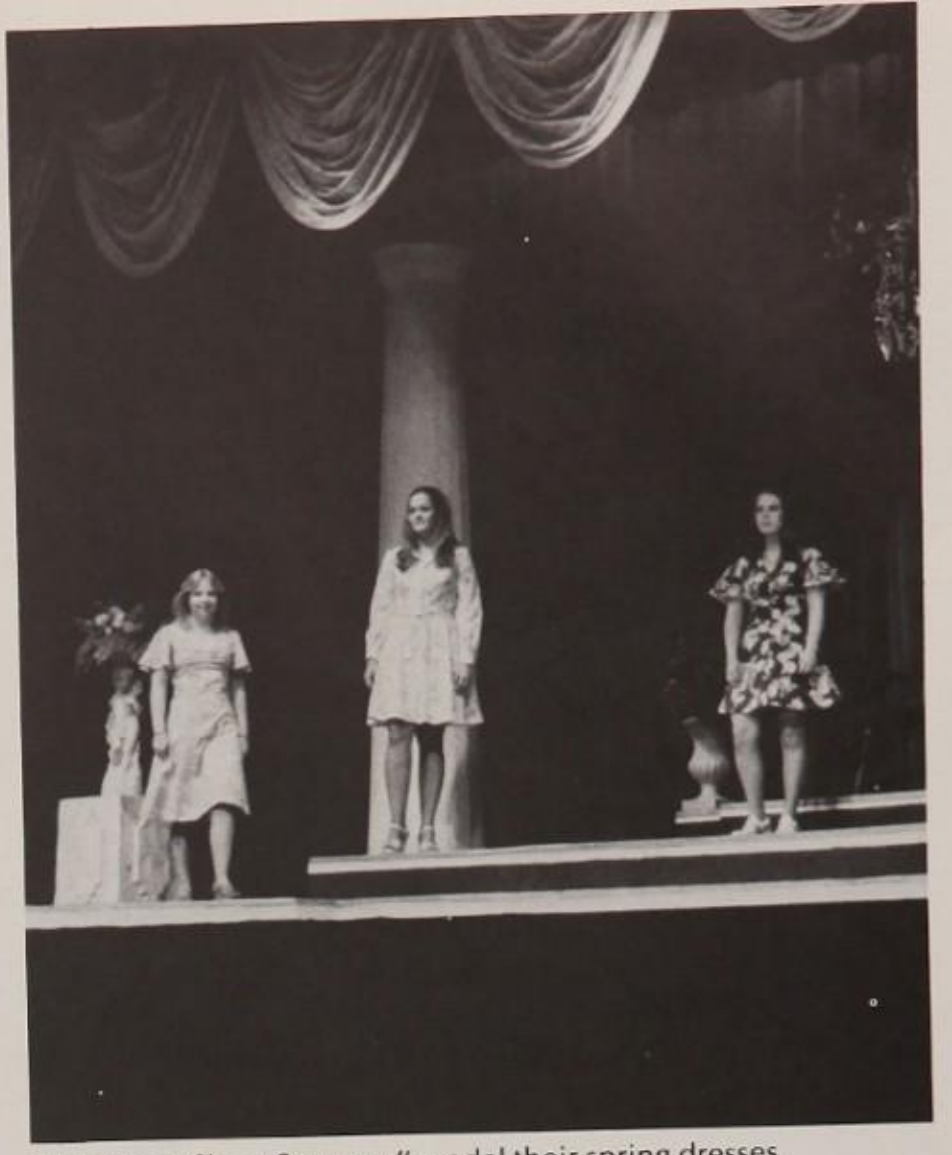
"A Musical Splash" was the theme of this year's annual synchronized swimming show presented by the Surfs.

Masque and Gavel provides entertainment at the Surf Show.

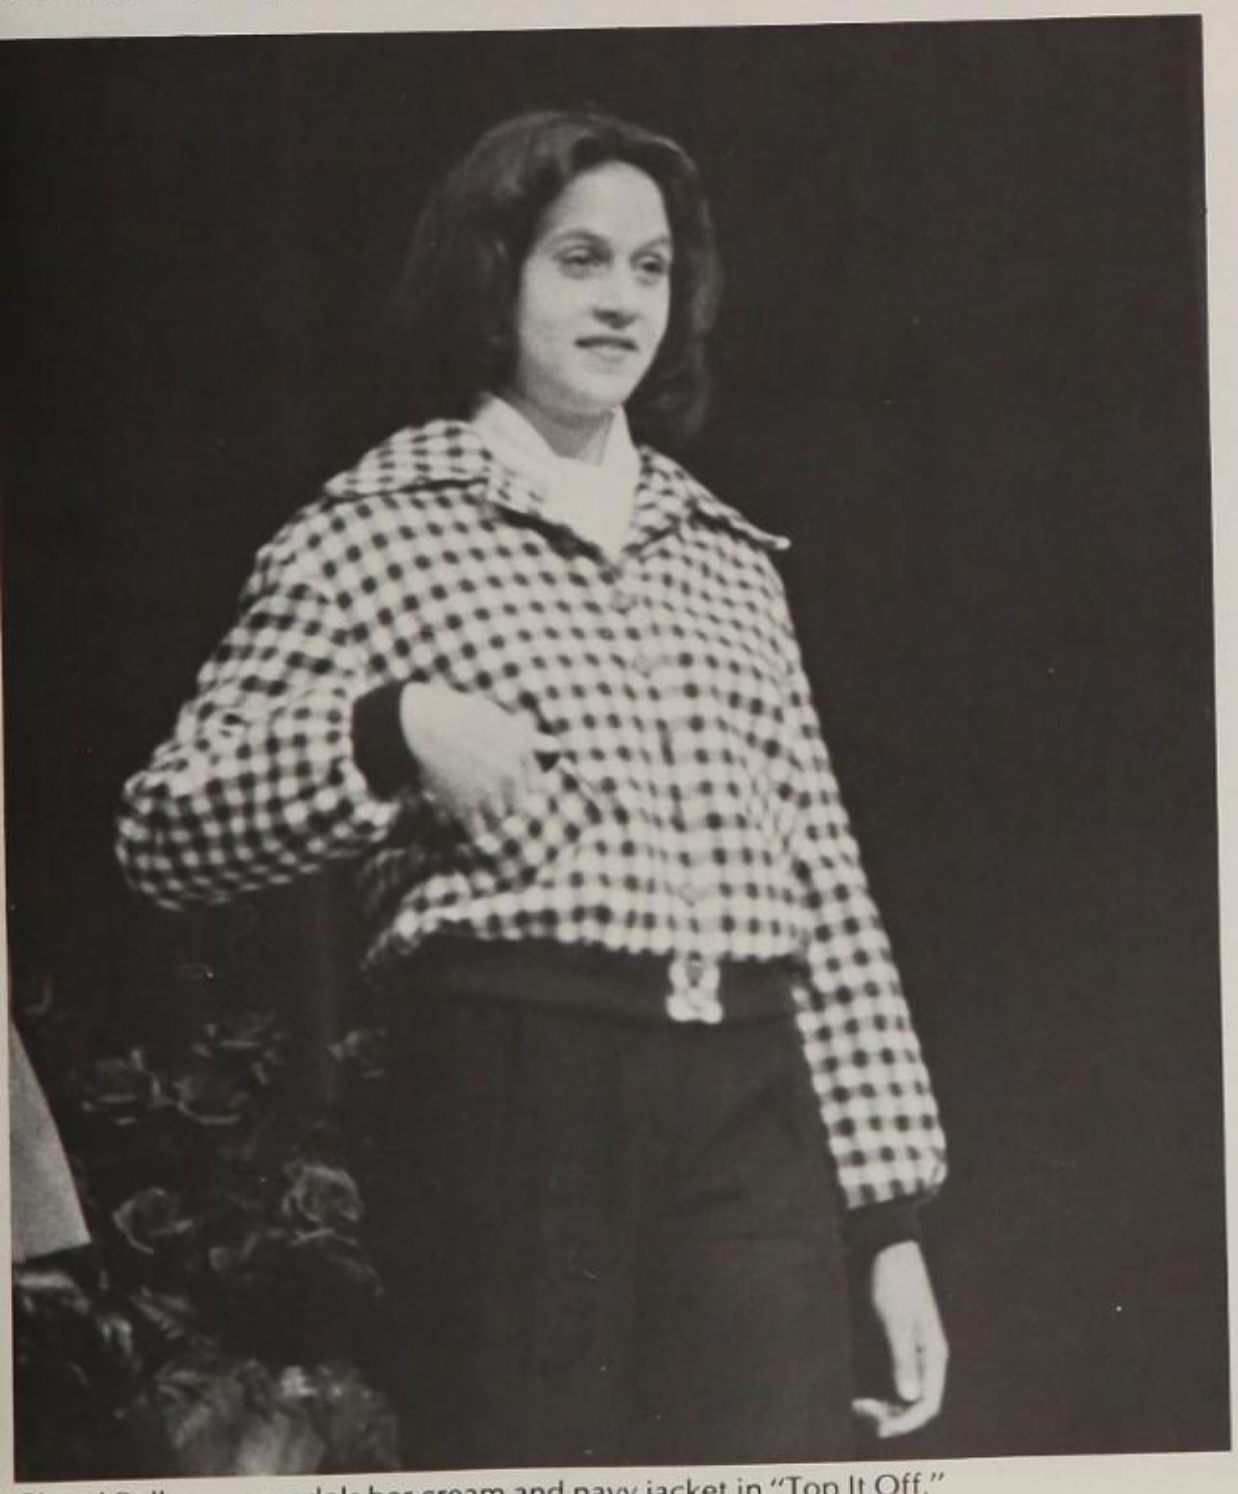
Debbie Reif performs her solo, "A Musical Dream."

Surfs provide a patriotic salute to the Armed Forces.

D. Stewart and R. Reynolds model creations in "Git-Around-Gear."



Girls from "Show Stoppers" model their spring dresses.



Cheryl Polhemus models her cream and navy jacket in "Top It Off."

Long hours of practice were evident as the Surfs presented their annual spring synchronized swim extravaganza, "A Musical Splash." Meeting daily during fifth hour, under the supervision of Mrs. Sharon Cairns, these girls worked diligently to choreograph numbers, coordinate costumes, and select music to accompany them. Masque and Gavel provided the entertainment between acts, adding their comedy and antics to amuse the audience. This show also gave the Surfs a chance to recognize their fellow swimmers who had done exceptional work for the club. In the end, all their hard work, cramped muscles, and chlorine filled hair was rewarded by a successful show.

"Show Offs" was the theme of this year's fashion show which was presented by the various clothing classes. This presentation included garments which were made in class by the students for themselves as well as for others. Fashions displayed included complicated coats and suits as well as simple dresses and clothes for children. Preparations for the show began with the actual assembling of garments and culminated with long rehearsals. Under the supervision of Mrs. Carolyn Brown, the Fashion narrated and produced the show.

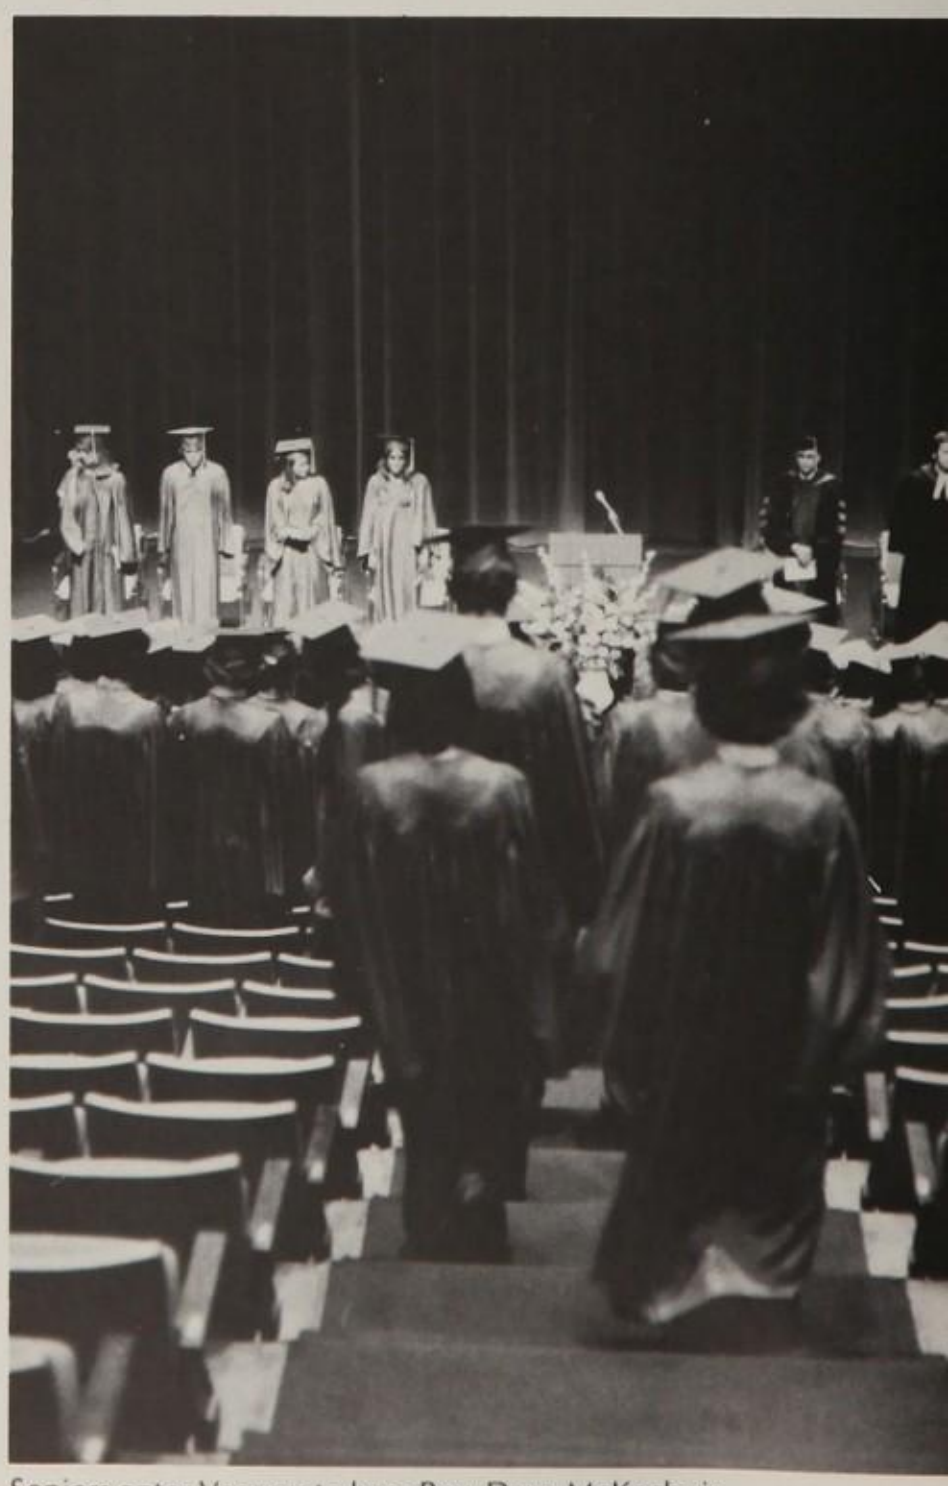
Dr. Darland addresses the Class of '75 during Vespers held at Oral Roberts University.

Vespers, Commencement Bring Smiles and Tears

Students adjust caps and gowns before entering Mabee Center.



Seniors enter Vespers to hear Rev. Dave McKechnie.

Commencement, as Webster defines it, is a beginning or a start. Yet to many Seniors, it was the end—of living in 55 minute spurts, of hurried lunches at Golden Burger or Arby's, of Spirit Weeks, of Charger homecomings, of TAKE STATE signs, and of twelve long years of work. The Class of '75 had been together for a brief three years, yet they shared many things in common. All had been addressed as "young people" by Herr Brown, all had survived The Lively Art of Writing, and most had sipped at least one Dr. Pepper at Across the Street. Now some would be going to college while others would be getting practical experience in the working world. It was the end of many good times with many friends. But as we walked the halls of Memorial for the last time as Seniors, to return our caps and gowns—as we reached out for that piece of paper we had worked so hard for—we realized that Webster was right, it was only the beginning.

Seniors receive the long-awaited diplomas.
